VOLUME XXVI—NUMBER 33

GOULD'S ACADEMY

The voluntary Christmas offering of

The following from the Boston Post will convey a general idea of Mr. Swasey's new position:

"Lieutenant Harold E. Donnell, supsrintendent of the Maine Reformatory for Men at South Windham, has appointed Guy II. Swasey of Lincoln, now aub-master of Gould's Academy at Bethel, as statistical clerk, educational and parole officer of the institution. This position carries with it a great deal of hard work, responsibility and judgment. When Mr. Swasoy began his duties at the reformatory today he was placed in charge of the records of the inmates.

"Mr. Swasey will look up the history of each individual case preceding the time that they got into difficulty with the law, will test each man's mentality under the Terman's system of mental intelligence and will then see that each man spends a portion of each evening in study. He will supervise this instruction and endeavor to supply each man with more knowledge in books than he had when he entered the institution, teaching those who have little or no elementary training so that they will be better able to care for themselves when paroled,

"When the time has arrived for pamie Mr. Swasey will have to find employment for the man, and after paroling him keep a careful supervision over him until it has been proven that he is able to care for himself. With the class of men which are being sent to the reformatory, it is claimed, that the work in this department will be stronuous, and it requires a man whose interest is dooply centred in the welfare of those who have been unfortunate enough to have committed crime and who need a strong mind to guide them. It is felt that Mr. Swasoy is the right man for the place.

Mr. Swasoy was born and received his elementary and secondary school training in Lincoln, Mo. He received his degree at Bates in 1914, and has since done graduate work in education and psychology. He has served as prinsipal of the Winter Harbor High School and the Bingham High School, as well as superintendent of schools at Bingham. He served with the 103d Infautry, which was a part of the 26th (Yankee) Division, during the World war and later was transferred to the Chenaeal Wolfare Service. Since returning ford at her home here. from war be has been the sub master of Could's Academy at Bethel. He is a member of prominent fraternal organi entions and the American Legion. "Mr. Swasey is 28 years of age, and has given up the teaching profession because he is interested in aiding those who have fallen into crime through ig sorance.

BING IN THE NEW From Tennyson's "In Memoriam" Ring out, wild bells, to the wild sky, The flying cloud, the frosty light;

The year is dying in the night; Ring out, wild bells, and let him die. Ring out the old, ring in the new,

Ring, happy bells, neross the snow: The year is going, let him go; Ring out the false, ring in the true.

For those that here we see no more; Ring out the foud of rich and poor,

And ancient forms of party strife; Ring in the nobler modes of life, With sweeter manners, purer laws.

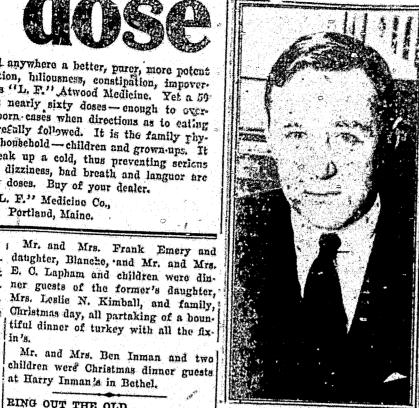

The faithfess coldness of the times; Ring out, ring out my mournful rhymes,

Ring out false pride in place and blood, The civic slander and the spite; Ring in the love of truth and right, Bling in the common love of good.

Ring out old shapes of foul disease: Bing out the narrowing lust of gold; Ring in the thousand years of peace.

Ring in the vallant man and free, The larger heart, the kindlier hand; Ring out the darkness of the land, Ring in the Christ that is to be.

"Pardon me," spoke Tindelle. "It was Mr. Marsh I wished to see."

"My father, yes. He will be here in moment," replied Miss Bertha Marsh, and her eyes expressed the graciously courteous attention the presence of a really handsome man could not help but influence. Just then her father appeared, nodded asually to Tindelle whom he, like all the other residents, had become acsustomed to see about the town, and looked inquiringly.

"Mr. Marsh," spoke the caller, "I am Ross Tindelle, as you may know. 1 have been disappointed as to a remitiance. It may arrive today, it may not come for a week. I owe my hotel and other bills amounting to somewhere mear one hundred dollars. Will you wan me that amount for thirty days?" John Marsh viewed the applicant citically, but only for a moment. LEGION'S DEBTS ARE REDUCED

Claims Against Organization Have Been Lowered $30,000 Per Month, Treasurer Announces.

The reduction of the indebtedness of the American Legion from $343,648 to $107,214 in five months, or at the rate of approximately $30,000 a month, has been announced by Robert H. Tyndall, national treasurer, at Indianapolis, Ilia statement covers the Indebtedness up to June 80.

The high mark of $343,048 was reached on January SI, and since then there has been a steady reduction of the deficit. In a previous announcement Mr. Tyndall declared that the Leglon's old indehtedness of $257,000, borrowed last aummer for preliminary organization work, had been paid in

The treasurer's books show that the indebtedness of $107,214 outstanding on June 30 is offset easily threefold by the assets of the American Legion. The dedelts at the end of the first alx months of the year are shown in the following table:

NATURAL PROPERTY OF THE PROPER The Trouble Mender

By JESSIE E. SHERWIN

CONTRACTOR (Q. 1920, Western Newspaper Union)

"Look out!" shouted Vance Dubois in tones ringing with excitement, and experiencing a decided sense of dis-

He stood at the open window of his room in the little family hotel, three stories up. It was an ideal bachelor sulte and had become to him a veritable home. The occupants were select, the neighborhood a quiet one. He had nursed along a window flower box and one of the wires securing it had broken loose as he was working over

Hence the alarming cry. Now he leaned out and looked down. He had noticed below a few moments before a girl of about eighteen. She carried a large basket filled with eggs, he had observed, as she removed its cover. She had transferred several dozen of these to a smaller basket and now was not in sight. At once Dubois divined that the restaurant on the first floor was a regular customer of this industrious farm maid.

As he viewed the wreck and ruin caused by the window box, Dubois thanked his stars that the girl had not been beneath it when it fell.

A live, active, generous minded young man, Vance Dubols roused to immediate action. He hurried from his room down two flights of stairs, dashed through the dining room of the restaurant from its front and entered the cook's quarters. He was well known to every employee of the place for he was a regular customer. The fat old cook regarded him with staring eyes, as this favorite customer, given to erratle actions as he knew from experience, demanded sharply: "Girl delivering eggs-where is

The episode passed from his mind within the hour. He was given to such whimsical impulses, which were absorbing for the time being but soon forgotten. It was two days later that he noticed the subject of his latest generasity coming toward him. Hoyden, filrt, minx, audacious Rachel Morgan was not bold enough to believe her coquetry would influence Vance Dubols, but she smiled her aweetest
